COAL OPERATORS AND TRAFFIC MEN

Talk Over Situation For The Coming Season.

Illinois Central Prepared to Handle Full Output of Mines Along Its System.

GO TO EVANSVILLE TOMORROW

The Palmer house was filled with coal operators and railroad officials this morning. It was all because of a meeting of coal operators and railroad officials to discuss the winter's coal business, and every thing points to the biggest coal business this winter ever known in this state.

"We expect the biggest coal business we have ever handled," Mr. J. Henry Schenck, superintendent of the Nashville division of the Illinois Central, stated at The Palmer. "The meeting this morning was held for the purpose of discussing the situation and preparing for it. The railroad desires to know just how much coal will probably be handled, the output of the mines, probability of labor trouble, etc., but conditions were never better."

No labor trouble is threatened and all mines are running with full forces. It is stated that the railroad is preparing to handle the entire output and will endeavor to haul the coal away as fast as the mines can put it out.

On the Louisville division an addition 150 combination ballast coal cars have been ordered and the greater portion of them are here now. The biggest class engines have been consigned to this division and twelve additional engines of the 800 class were sent here last week.

The railroad company was represented by the following officials: O. S. Keith, Chicago, general superintendent of transportation; A. H. Egan, superintendent; F. L. Thompson, roadmaster; J. L. James, trainmaster; L. E. McCabe, trainmaster; W. C. Waggener, supervisor; F. N. North, chief dispatcher; Master Mechanic R. J. Turnball, Louisville and Paducah districts; J. Henry Schenck, superintendent of the Nashville division; H. C. McCourt, an superintendent of Southern lines Illinois Central.

The coal operators were as follows: F. M. Fisher, Brack Owen, William Eades, city; M. Atkinson, Louisville; W. S. Simmons, Memphis; R. Morgan, Louisville; W. S. Elgin, Nortonville; C. M. Martin, Greenville; C. W. Taylor, Greenville; W. D. McElhaney, Central City. The coal companies represented are Nortonville Coal company; St. Bernards company; Duncan company; Broadway Coal company, Memphis, Tenn., and Central City Coal company.

Tomorrow a similar meeting will be held in Evansville and Supt. Henry Schenck will meet the coal operators there.

CONTRACT TERMS MAY BE CHANGED

Bids For Sewer Construction are Held Up.

City Not in Position to Pay Eighty Per Cent. of Cost of Extension on Estimates.

ASSESSED AGAINST PROPERTY

Advertisements for bids on the construction of the city sewer extensions from Ninth street to Thirteenth street are held up pending an investigation into the city's ability to enter into the proposed contract.

It reads that as the work progresses the city shall pay a total of 80 per cent of the cost price to the contractors on estimates of the engineer, the city reserving 20 per cent of the contract price until the work is accepted.

The objection to the form of the contract is that the city is not to pay for the sewer but the cost falls on abutting property owners, and without a bond issue the terms of such a contract can not well be met. The present plan is to meet the expense by an assessment, but this can not be arranged so as to provide funds for the payment of the cost as the work progresses.

City Engineer Washington says that unless this sort of contract is let the work may cost 25 per cent more, and says there will be fewer bidders, but this argument is met by the fact that the city reserves the right to reject all bids.

The principal argument in favor of issuing bonds and paying for the work as it progresses lies in the fact that it will give small contractors a chance to bid on the job. They are not always sufficiently endowed with funds to complete a large contract like that contemplated without drawing something on account to pay their men and purchase supplies.

Under a recent provision of the charter the city may issue bonds to defray expenses of public improvements and then assess the cost against property holders on the ten-year installment plan.

There was debate of over an hour in the Democratic convention on the question of nominating a United States senator before it was decided in the affirmative. The Democratic ticket is as follows:

United States senator, Wm. H. Thompson, Grand Island.

For governor, Ashton C. Shaeffer, Alma.

Lieutenant-Governor, Wm. H. Green Creighton.

Secretary of state, Carl H. Gouher, Wahno.

Treasurer, Frank C. Babcock, Hastings.

TO FIGHT STANDARD.

European Capitalists Will Buy Out Russian Firms.

Bert Johnson, county road supervisor, not satisfied with having made a record in economical building of roads and bridges, is cutting down the expense of his department still more. He has fitted himself out for civil engineering. He intends to do all this work on roads and already has saved the county $75, although he has had his transit and level a few weeks.

He was tinkering with the surveying instrument when reporter happened in his office this morning. He explained that he had studied civil engineering in his school days and lately has taken it up again, seeing where he can do his own surveying and save the county hundreds of dollars in the course of a year. He bought a second-hand transit and level and paid for it out of his own pocket. The instrument cost $125 and is a fine one.

"Yes, I see where I can make money by doing this work—that is mine for the county," Supervisor Johnson explained, "and I will hereafter do all my surveying. I have already saved the county $75 surveying fees for work at Blizzard pond and on Massac creek section. I am not running in opposition to County Surveyor Wren. He gets paid for surveying land, and this is a different class of work. I will get all my grades myself and think the work will progress fast or."

Cross Creek Situation Will Be Exposed and the Condition Remedied.

ROTTING FRUIT NEAR MARKET.

At Mayor Yelser's call the board of health met yesterday afternoon at the city hall. The object of the meeting was continued consideration of the Cross creek situation.

A committee was appointed to inspect the sanitary drains of all houses between Monroe street and Broadway, which empty into Cross creek. The board wants to know the nature of the refuse turned into the creek.

A committee was appointed to select a plumb line inspector to inspect the drains in these houses, under the direction of the committee. The committee also was instructed to communicate with the general council to provide means for draining and filling the pool caused by the building of the embankment on Broadway between Seventeenth and Nineteenth streets. The pool is on the left side of Broadway.

The secretary of the board of health was instructed to notify the board of public works of the unsanitary condition of the south end of the market. It is said rotting fruit and vegetables are thrown out there.

The condition of weeds in the city was more satisfactory to the board since some evidence of co-operation by the city court has been manifested.

MYSTIC NUMBERS IN POLICE COURT

Thirteen Dollars Fine for The Number Thirteen.

P. D. Fitzpatrick First Victim of the Speed Ordinance—Had First License.

OWNER OF "21" TOLD TO GO

Police court loungers crossed their fingers this morning when P. D. Fitzpatrick, whose automobile bears the "hoodoo" No. 21, was presented on the charge of fast riding, and they looked wise when he was fined $10 with $3 costs annexed.

Their eyes nearly popped out of their head when Henry Arenz was told he could "skidoo." Henry Arenz' machine is numbered 23, and the police said they couldn't identify him or his machine as the one they vainly chased on South Tenth street at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was the first person in Paducah to take out a license when licenses were issued for the first time in Paducah two weeks ago. He chose No. 13. He was followed into City Clerk Henry Balliey's office by Henry Arenz. In spirit of fun Mr. Arenz said: "I will take No. 23."

The two automobile enthusiasts walked together into the office of City Treasurer Dorlan and waiving the "mystic numbers, exclaimed, "We are going to tempt fate."

They are the first persons ever arrested in Paducah on the charge of violating the speed law with automobiles.

There were two charges against Mr. Fitzpatrick but only one of them was substantiated to the satisfaction of the court.

On the testimony of Mr. Ed Nance that Mr. Fitzpatrick exceeded the local speed of eight miles on Broadway and narrowly missed a small child, Mr. Fitzpatrick was assessed a total of $13.

Patrolmen Terrell and Alexander preferred charges of violating the speed ordinance against both Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Arenz. It was 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, according to the patrolmen, when they saw two machines dashing along South Tenth street so fast that they soon lost their blue-coated pursuers in the rear. The darkness and dust prevented the patrolmen reading the numbers. They were unable to identify either of the prisoners.

The prisoners were dismissed on this charge.

PLUCKY MATRON AND DOG

Frighten Burglar Away From Newport Mansion.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 17.—Evidently believing that Mrs. I. Townsend Burden and her daughters, Evelyn and Gwendoline Burden, would be too fatigued, after entertaining a dinner company last evening, to put away their jewels, a burglar entered the Burden villa early this morning. He was thwarted in his purpose by the incessant barking of the family pet dog and by the pluck of Mrs. Burden, who saw the robber and followed him in his flight till he disappeared in the darkness. The dog, a Pomeranian, weighs only a pound.

Thirteen and twelve makes twenty-five innings, and this is the number of the Hoosiers and Indians battled without any results. It is the record. The fear of the past two days will probably remain the record for years to come.

Wednesday the Hoosiers and Indians battled in a double-header and the Indians won the first. The second game went thirteen innings and ended in a tie, 2 to 2, the game being called on account of darkness. Yesterday a double-header was scheduled, but rain prevented. It was a fast infield that the teams worked on, and the playing was fast and furious when the teams did get to playing.

It was settled that only one game would be played, and when Umpire Quills called the game in the thirteenth inning, it was because the dusk was falling so fast that seeing the ball was an impossibility.

The game ended five to five. Brable did the throwing for the Indiana and Perdue for the Hoosiers. Both were confident of victory, but it turned out one of the most dogged games ever played in the Katty league.

The Indians led off with two runs in the second. Wetzel walked to first. Haas sacrificed. Lloyd hit a Texas leaguer over first and Downing popped out to Donovan. Brable smashed a double to right, scoring Wetzel and Lloyd, but got tagged by Whitley's throw to Mitchell, who covered third.

In the third inning the Hoosiers scored two runs and evened up matters. Downing dropped a foul from Mitchell's bat, but it was a desperate chance. Then the wily catcher fled to right field and the "Chief" let it fall. Matic got to second on the muf. Perdue met a low one to second for a single. Whitley hit over Perry's head for a single, scoring Matic. Mitchell hit slowly to Perry and the ball seemed to hit Perry.

due, the runner. Perry made no effort to field the ball. Umpire Quills called all hands safe. Kolb missed three and Moran singled over Perry's head. Perry snapped the ball to Downing and caught Whitley at the plate. The side was retired by a pop fly to Wetzel.

In the ninth inning the next scores were made.

Donovan drove a fly into Taylor's mitt. Maticson drove one to Cooper's mitt. Perdue singled, Whitley hit for two sacks past "Pa" Lloyd, scoring Perdue. Mitchell singled to right field and Lloyd tried to throw home, but bobbled, scoring Perdue. Kolb missed three in succession, retiring the side.

The Indians evened up in the same inning. Perry strolled and stole second. Quigley singled to left, and Perry crossed the rubber at home. He went to second on the throw home. Cooper's out, Mitchell to Donovan, put Quigley to third and Wetzel flied out to Moran. While Perdue was winding, Quigley started for the rubber. Haas swung slowly, Maticson lost his nozzle and dropped the throw, Quigley making the rubber. At this juncture Umpire Quills lost his nozzle and ordered Quigley back to third, alleging Haas had interfered with Catcher Maticson. The rule book was brought into evidence and Quills "shown up." Quigley was called safe and Haas went to first on a balk because Perdue had stepped out of his box. Lloyd singled and Downing duplicated. Moran took the drive nicely on the bounce and fielded Haas out at the plate.

In the tenth inning Moran singled, McClelland sacrificed him to second and Barbour followed with a single. Donovan grounded out and Moran scored on the play. Maticson grounded out.

The Indians evened up in the last half. Brable singled and went to second on Barbour's bad throw. Taylor beat out a bunt. Barbour threw wild to first and Brable scored. Perry sacrificed, Quigley hit to Barbour and Taylor was out at third, nuking a double play unassisted. The next two innings saw no more scores and darkness prevailed.

Slow work in the outfield cost Paducah the game.

Brable was as steady as a tied and blistered horse.

Downing did not allow a single stolen base.

Brable did splendid hitting.

"Paducah Dick" hit as well as he pitched.

Had the Indian camp been supplied with the required number of outfielders there would have been no need of going over the nine innings.

Brable struck out three in the twelfth inning.

In spite of several accidents and bad luck the Indians held on and were coming strong at the finish. If darkness had not caused a cessation of the struggle, it would have been a safe wager that the Indians would have won.

Brable did not give a base on balls and only hit one man, Barbour, who took a slow one in the small of the back.

They were driving each with a young lady, and, jumping almost at the same time from their vehicles, they seized their buggy whips and began lashing each other about the legs and body fiercely. The young women begged them to stop, but they would not until the girls had pretended to drive off without them.

SCARES BURGLAR BY FALL FROM BED

William Smalley's Salary Attracts Thief.

Neighbors See a White Man Waiting Near House and Witness the Attempt.

WIFE IS AWAKENED BY NOISE.

Mrs. William Smalley was awakened from her slumbers at 1 o'clock this morning to see a burglar trying to get into the window. She screamed and her husband was so startled by his sudden awakening that he fell out of bed, setting to flight the burglar.

Mr. Smalley resides at 1905 Clark street and thinks the burglar had been "laying" for him to come home with his monthly salary after cashing his railroad check. Mr. Smalley is employed in the Illinois Central printing mill and did not leave the house last night. He had secured his check, had it cashed and gone home.

"The Misses Blewett reside next door to me," he explained. "They saw a low built man, whom they took to be white, prowling about the vicinity of my house early in the night. They saw him go to the screen about 1 o'clock. The door offered no opportunity and the young women saw him make his way to the side window of our bedroom. It was while he was attempting to lift the screen that my wife was awakened. I had no pistol and had to stand and watch the intruder escape over the fence."

JOHNSON'S EVE ON CABINET.

Cleveland Mayor Plans to Dictate Ohio Democratic State Ticket.

Cleveland, August 17.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson, it is said, will be a member of the cabinet in the event that Bryan is elected president in 1908. Anyway he is playing politics for big stakes—the practical control of the Ohio Democratic party and the dictation of the state ticket to be nominated next week, as also the election of himself as state campaign manager, delegate to the national convention and member of the national committee. He plans to stampede the state convention to him by attacking in speech and reading out of the party Lewis Bernard, John R. McLean's Lieutenant; Congressman Garber, present state campaign manager, and James Ross, boss of central Ohio.

Johnson was bitter tonight against the party's present leaders.

"The Democratic party," he said "can never command the confidence of the people with a lot of dirty, low political crooks clinging to it. This is a good time for house-cleaning, and all decent Democrats ought to get together to put all the gangsters down and out."

HIGH PROFIT MADE.

Toledo Combine Bought Ice at $1.15 a Ton and Sold It at $10.

Toledo, O., August 17.—The most interesting witness of the day before the Interstate commerce commission was H. P. Watters, one of the owners of the Michigan Lake ice company, and one of the ice men sentenced to the work-house by Judge Kinkaid for conspiracy in restraint of trade. Watters testified that he bought ice from the Michigan lakes, had it carried to Toledo by the railroads, and that he paid this year, $1.15 a ton, freight included. As this same ice was sold to the homes in Toledo for $10 a ton, under the combination, the testimony was of more than ordinary interest.

Suit for Illegal Fees.

Central City, Ky., Aug. 17.—Suit was filed in the Muhlenberg circuit court by Dr. T. J. Shaton, member of the last legislature, as citizen and taxpayer of the county, against T. A. Sparks, former county judge of Muhlenberg, to recover of Sparks about $1,750 that Sparks received in fees while he was county judge, and that plaintiff claims he was not entitled to under the law. Sparks, while judge, claimed to have been instrumental in settling railroad tax of the county, and was allowed a legal fee of $1,000 for this alleged part of settlement of the tax while he was county judge. Also, while he was county judge, it is claimed that he was allowed about $750 as road and bridge commissioner. This allowance, it is claimed, is clearly illegal, and suit has been filed against him to recover these two sums making a total of about $1,750 that is sued for.

All Engagements.

ODD TROUSER REDUCTIONS

The Odd Trouser Sale which has been in progress at our store for some time past, during which all our odd trousers have been offered at one-fourth off, is probably arousing more interest than any of our money-saving cut price sales, with the exception of the suit sale, as economical dressers recognize the opportunities it affords of making a new suit out of an old one by the addition of a pair of odd trousers. One-fourth off is a strong enough cut to satisfy most people, but if that does not interest you, by all means see the special lot of 150 pairs of fine trousers, former prices $3.00 to $8.00, now being offered for exactly

One-Half Price

These are fine cassimere, flannel and worsteds, formerly among the best in our store, but they had become slightly soiled from handling, hence the big reduction.

Just Like Manna Came Chickens While Couple in Next Suite Waited

A mistake of a small negro porter, employed in a down-town restaurant, caused both himself and the young manager to lose jobs. It further satisfied the cravings of a man in a doctor's office and a general comification in the restaurant and a suite of rooms where a newly married couple were patiently awaiting the arrival of their dinner.

"There has been a mistake," the restaurant keeper declared, but Dr. Washington calmly informed him that he had made none; that he had placed the dinner where it belonged. Dr. Washington presumed it had been sent him by Dr. Robertson.

The couple for which the dinner was intended went hungry until the order could be duplicated.

The affair caused a general shake-up in the restaurant.

Big Load of Sand.
Probably the largest load of sand for the longest distance in this country was hauled last Saturday from Paducah to Mayfield. There were 9,180 pounds of the sand and it required four of Frank McClain's big mules to haul it in his wagon. The sand was for the Mayfield foundry and is to be used in casting the large irons that are to be used in the construction of the house to be erected on the south side by Hoblina & Thomas—Mayfield Messengers.

Three minutes after the doctor left a negro boy laboring under a big waiter laden with two fried chickens and edibles of every kind, appeared in the doorway. "Who is that dinner for?" Dr. Washington inquired.

"It's fo' you," the darky replied, glad to set the tray down.

"Is it paid for?"
"It's show am," and with this the darky disappeared. So did the dinner presently, but there was so much that an office boy was brought in to help do justice to it.

Just as the tray was being set aside the sounds of fast scurrying

Daily Thought.

"A laugh is worth a hundred groans."

We may expect the very bowels of the Democratic organization in Kentucky to be laid bare during the ensuing campaign before the state primary. Already the candidates are on the stump, each tearing open the record of the other. United States Senator McCreary talks of the governor's machine; Governor Beckham talks of the senator's lost opportunities in congress, and challenges McCreary to stand on his own record as chief executive; while Attorney General Hayes is accusing the governor and his followers of all kinds of political crimes, and the governor is responding with a
"tu quoque." Were these Republicans and Democrats pitted against each other, the amenities of the hustings would be observed, and the candidates would speak of "issues" and affairs; but all belonging to the same party and proclaiming adherence to the same fixed principles, they have nothing to discuss but personalities, and to the credit of their resourcefulness let it be said, they seem to find plenty of material.

Mayfield papers are crowing loudly
because nobody was lynched in Paducah Monday night by a mob.
But, our dear friends, there wasn't any mob.

HARMONY.

Bryan says to Sullivan, "Get out."
Hearst says to Sullivan, "Get out."
Pulitzer says to Taggart, "Get out."
Meanwhile, Hearst makes faces at Bryan, although they work to a common end in trying to rid the party of Sullivan, and Bryan ignores Hearst.

Sullivan blames Dunlap.

Taggart says, "Why should I resign?"

John K. Kern echoes, "Why should Taggart resign?"

Hearst plays battleaxe and shut-cock with Taggart.

Croker frames up a job on Milwaukee Wm. Randolph, and from across the water deputized his people to request that W. R. doesn't get the nomination for governor of New York.

Jerome says he'll take the nomination for governor of New York just to keep Hearst from having it.

Beckham and McCreary go down to Broadway in Kentucky.

Alton B. Parker says Hearst is no
Democrat.

John W. Spencer says Duncan C.
Givens likewise is no Democrat.

All of which suggests the possibility that—

A commission to decide "Who's Who" in the Democratic party would be timely.—Evansville Journal-News.

HE IS GUID.

Gus Singleton wants to be police judge of Paducah. Lord, a massy:

Last week we came very near declaring in favor of Dave Cross. We must be very careful—George Dluguid looks good to us, too.—Murray Ledger.

How ridiculous is that long "smoke up" sent out to the press of the country labeled "special," but in reality emitted from the campaign headquarters in Washington, which suggests the probability that the Republican administration is throwing down the gauntlet to organized labor just because Chairman Shantz, of the canal commission, is talking of working Chinese coolies in the Panama ditch.

Neither Mr. Shantz nor the administration is fighting labor, they are simply trying to get the canal dug. President Roosevelt has proved himself a pretty good friend of organized labor operating within its rightful sphere.

King Edward and Kaiser Wilhelm met at Cronberg and acted just as monarchs always do when monarchs are glad to see one another. They didn't pull each other's nose and they didn't make faces at each other.
Then Ed went to Marienbad to take a bath; but the meeting didn't have anything to do with his determination to take a bath. He goes to Marienbad every year and takes a bath whether he needs it or not. We see nothing in the incident to stir Europe.

Pretty soon a lot of temporary chalmers will begin sounding keynotes and the chorus will not be in harmony. It must be gratifying to the temporary chairmen of other days, when they took back over years gone by and remember keynotes that they have sounded, to realize that they were only temporary adjuncts to those conventions and their relations to those keynotes are forgotten.

What a pity the Democratic city primary takes place ahead of the congressional election and the national Democratic convention. If William Jennings Bryan, Ollie James and Nick Longworth, after their triumphal tours through England, are successful, some of the defeated candidates for city judge will regret missing the trip.

The Livingston Banner remarks that no actress is claiming a share in Russell Sage's estate. We are not acquainted with the occupation of all the near and far distant dear ones who are organizing a syndicate to exploit their claims; but we would not be surprised if some thespian is counted among the horde, who feel slighted by "Uncle Russell's" will.

Uncle Joe Cannon on receiving his seventeenth consecutive acclamation nomination for congress at Danville, Ill., declared to those who precipitated his boom for the presidency, that just now he is thinking about the congressional race. Et tu, Ollie?

It may be that the man in Ohio,
who was married twice and twice widowed, felt his heart return to its old love of thirty-five years ago, but we're betting the Hopkinsville school ma'am, who married him, was just simply tired of teaching.

The Jam of Navanjar, Prince Ranjan Singhji, is dead. He was ruler over Nowanagar, whose capital of the same name is situated on the gulf of Cutch on the peninsula of Kathaiwar. Any small boy ought to know where the jam is.

Maybe, Ollie James is waiting until that antipodal season when all the other candidates, by their abuse and exposure will have disqualified each other, and he will have the nomination handed to him.

Mayfield papers are crowing loudly

FACES OF MARINE MARVELS

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 17.—A meeting of the committees having charge of the high, interesting motor boat events that will take place on the waters of Hampton Roads during the Jamestown exposition next year will be held Tuesday, September 11, at the club station of the Motor Boat club of America, in New York City. A better time could not be selected, from the fact that the meeting will be held during the great National Motor Boat carnival race week of this club, which starts September 19 and continues until the 15th, thus giving the committee every opportunity of seeing the great national event and studying the details and plans in connection therewith as a basis on which to plan for the exposition events of 1907. Mr. Hugh S. Gamble, secretary of the Motor Boat club of America, and a member of its board of governors, who has been the guest of the exposition officials for several days, has made a careful study of the exposition grounds and the waters adjacent thereto. Mr. Gamble will be able to give the committee some valuable information as to the courses, etc., so that those visiting the exposition might be able to review the various events of the week. Mr. Gamble will also take up the matter of a cruise from all sections of the country to the exposition, by motor boat. Clubs of the north and east, as well as some parts of the west are to rendezvous at the Motor Boat club station on the Hudson river, New York City, and from other parts of the west and south at some convenient place where both boats may meet, possibly the upper end of Chesapeake Bay, and form in line for a parade into Hampton Roads to the exposition grounds.

The towboat Catherine passed up last night with a tow of empties for Louisville.

The Dunbar probably will get off the dry docks Monday.

The Dick Fowler got away this morning for Cairo and way points on time with a good passenger trip.

It is a remarkable fact that the steamboats carried more people on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and their tributaries during the past six months than have ever been carried before in the same length of time. The fact that of the many thousands who have taken river trips not a single life has been lost or a passenger hurt is positive proof that it is safer to travel by river than by rail. More people were killed and crippled in one railroad accident in Pennsylvania recently than all the steamboats in the United States in three years. Sick to the river. It is safer than railroads.—Courier-Journal.

The freight carried through the Louisville and Portland canal and the falls of the Ohio river at Louisville during June amounted to 98,822 tons, compared with 90,856 in June, 1905, and 65,312 in 1904. Similar movements for the first six months of 1906 aggregate 583,290 tons, of which the principal item was 666,913 tons of coal. The total movement for the corresponding month in 1906 was 1,175,000 tons and in 1904, 1,589,126 tons.—Courier-Journal.

The ring was found in the rear hall. No clue was left, and only one person was at home at the time the robbery is believed to have taken place.

WATERMELON AND CIDER.

Result in Fatal Complication for Florence Youth.

Coroner Frank Baker returned this morning from Florence Station, where he held an inquest into the death of Elmore Prince, 13 years old, who had eaten watermelon and drank cider today. This exonerates all parties concerned, as the ring evidently was dropped there by accident.

CANNON'S BOOM FOR PRESIDENCY

Lunched at Convention Held at Danville.

Uncle Joe Says Party Can Stand On Record of Roosevelt and This Congress.

SEVENTEENTH NOMINATION

Danville, Ill., August 17.—The convention of the Eighteenth Illinois congressional district renominated Joseph G. Cannon for the eighteenth consecutive time, being the seventeenth nomination by acclamation. There was the greatest enthusiasm, especially over the prospective candidacy of Mr. Cannon for president. Mr. Cannon had not intended to launch a boom for president at this convention, but the pressure of his supporters was so great as to sweep away his whims in the matter.

Mr. Cannon's supporters in his own district will likely urge the state convention to make similar endorsements. There seems to be little doubt that this will be done.

Cannon's Speech.

Mr. Cannon, after the passage of a resolution endorsing him for the presidency of the United States, said:

"The resolution which you have just adopted, coming as it does from those whom I have represented in the national house of representatives for over thirty years, touches me profoundly. I would be less than human did I not appreciate your expression of compliment when you mention my name with approval. In connection with the highest office in the gift of the people, I would not exchange your confidence for the gratification of any ambition I might have. It is proper for me to say, however, that we are on the eve of a campaign for the election of a national house of representatives which may involve one-third of the personnel of the United States senate, to say nothing of the campaign in the respective states."

Little Too Early.

"As you are aware the election will be held in November next. In politics as well as in other matters, it is best not to cross a stream until you come to it. The first stream to cross is in November next, and it is necessary that we should be successful in crossing it before we attempt to get over the river in 1908."

"It is vital that the Republican party should remain in power for the coming two years in order that the legislative and executive departments of the government should continue in harmony."

"Speaking for myself, I am not in favor of this legislation demanded by Mr. Gompers. The power of the courts to issue writs of injunction to prevent irreparable injury to property or to a property right for which there is no adequate remedy at law, is older than the constitution and as well established as any other principle of law or equity. The inalienable right of each citizen, be he weak or strong, is to come and go to and from his property without molestation, and to carry on business thereon, and, in the exercise of such right, he is entitled to call upon the government for protection through the courts."

Tribute to Roosevelt.

In conclusion, Speaker Cannon declared:

"In the executive departments of the government the record of the party has been brilliant, courageous and honest, and the name of 'Roosevelt' has become synonymous for all those qualities throughout the realms of civilization. He has been the president of all the people, and he has been tireless in his efforts to serve the people by wise, just and fearless administration of the law. He has been particularly zealous in administering the law against the trusts and combinations of capital which have ignored the old adage of live and let live. The steel trust, the paper trust, the tobacco trust, the drug trust, the coal combination and various combinations of railroads and shippers have felt the heavy hand of the law and learned that it is strong enough to compel them to give all a square deal. The record of trust prosecutions and investigations into their practices is too long to here recite, but it is acknowledged to be most creditable, even by our political opponents."

Congress' Record.

"The congress has worked in harmony with the president and embodied into law more of his recommendations than has fallen to the lot of most chief executives. I believe the record of the Fifty-ninth congress made in its first session will go into history as one of the best records of legislation for the benefit of all the people that has ever been made. The railroad rate law, the pure food law, the meat inspection amendment to the agricultural appropriation act, the free alcohol law, the consular reform legislation, the employers' liability law, all enacted at one session of congress, make a record of legislation many years."

"No amendment to the interstate commerce law known as the Elkins law of 1902, and the rate legislation just enacted, coupled with many decisions by the supreme court of the United States, render it reasonably certain that practices which had grown up by large shippers of commodities, demanding and receiving from common carriers exceptions rates for transportation not enjoyed by others, is prohibited by law and penalized both as to the railway, or other common carrier, and the shipper. So that it is safe to say that each citizen in the United States will be treated the same as every other citizen."

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

IN CASE OF GUARD AND INSANE MAN.

Leads to Former Being Mistaken for Latter Who Is Entertained at Danville Jail.

Danville, Ky., Aug. 17.—Late last night on account of a delayed train, which caused H. G. Veal, guard at the Lakeland asylum, near Louisville, to miss connection for that point, with Richard Offutt an insane prisoner from Somerset, he applied at the Danville jail and asked to remain there through the night. Jailer Fitzgerald arose and escorted both men into the prison, the guard going in front.

The night was dark and the jailer did not know the guard from the prisoner. He showed the men a vacant cell in the jail corridor, which could be occupied by the insane man, and started for the door.

The guard got mixed in his movements and was left in the rear, while Offutt followed the jailer outside, declaring that he was the guard. Offutt Fitzgerald showed him to the best room in his residence and introduced him to members of his family.

Early this morning the insane man appeared at the jailer's door and stated that his room had taken life and walked away sometime during the night, and that he had been looking all over the place for it without success. The officer became alarmed and rushed to the jail to find Veal greatly exercised, because Offutt is said to be dangerous when attacked with insane spells.

The insane man was taken into immediate charge and carried to Lakeland on the first train. He threw things right and left in the room he occupied, but otherwise did no damage.

SEN. MCREEARY AGAINST REFORM

Says Governor Beckham in Opening Speech.

Charges the Senator With Overlooking Opportunity in Present Congress.

Goes After Record of Hays.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 17.—Governor Beckham delivered his initial speech in his campaign for senator against James B. McCreary last night to a large audience at the Auditorium at Woodlawn park.

The governor came from Frankfort on the late train and was accompanied by several hundred followers and the Second regiment military band. He held a short reception at the hotel.

His address in the main was a refutation of the charges McCreary made against the administration machine. He then endorsed the candidacy of Bryan for president.

Governor Beckham said that McCreary had allied himself with the lawless element, taking the side of the people who favored disregarding the law requiring saloons to close on the Sabbath, with those who favored the non-obedience to the county nut law, and opposing those who were leaders of the great things done by his administration.

He said that McCreary at the Louisville meeting endorsed Attorney General Hays, who was trying to be elected governor; that Hays had done nothing for the state, failing to attend all important meetings of the executive boards of which he is a member by virtue of his office, failing to give assistance in the management of state affairs. He said that Hays' charge of graft and corruption were untrue and malitious and were known to be untrue when uttered.

No compared his administration with that of McCreary, when he was governor, and said that if McCreary really wanted to do reform work he lost the opportunity in the United States senate, of which he has been a member for the past three years.

He took a letter from his pocket, opened it and handed it to the doctor. "I guess you can see to read this if you will step nearer the street lamp."

The letter was an offer from one of the big eastern lines. While the doctor knew very little of railroads, he understood that the offer was a fine one and was impressed accordingly.

"I'd take it," he said. "I wouldn't fritter away my time here. Precious little thanks you'll ever get."

"I can't honestly break with General Cornish. In fact, I have already decided, but I wanted you to see the letter."

"I am sorry for your sake that you did. You are sure to have more trouble."

"So much the more reason why I should stay."

"I am quite frank with you, Oakley. Some strong influence is at work. No, it hasn't to do with your father. You can't well be held accountable for his acts."

Hyder's laughter reached them as he spoke. Oakley could see him faintly outlined in the moonlight, where he sat between Constance Emory and her mother. The influence was there. It was probably at work at that very moment.

"I wouldn't be made a martyr through any chivalrous sense of duty," continued the doctor. "I'd look out for myself."

Dan laughed again.

"You are preening cowards at a great rate."

"Well, what's the use of sacrificing oneself? You possess a most horrible sense of roulette."

"I would like to ask a favor of you," hesitating.

"I was going to say if there was any thing I could do."

"If you don't mind," with increasing hesitancy, "will you say to Miss Emory for me that I'd like to see her tomorrow afternoon? I'll call about 3—that is—"

"Yes, I'll tell her for you."

"Thank you," gratefully. "Thank you very much. You think she will be at home?" awkwardly, for he was afraid the doctor had misunderstood.

"I fancy so. I can see now, if you wish."

"No, don't. I'll call on the chance of finding her in."

"Just as you prefer."

Oakley extended his hand.

"I won't keep you standing any longer. Somehow our talk has helped me. Good night."

Good night.

The doctor gazed abstractedly after the young man as he moved down the street, and he continued to gaze after him until he had passed from sight in the shadows that lay beneath the whispering maples.

CHAPTER XIII.

ERIKH'S it showed lack of proper feeling, but Oakley managed to sleep off a good deal of his emotional stress, and when he left his hotel the next morning he was quite himself again.

His attitude toward the world was the decently cheerful one of the man who is earning a good salary, and whose personal cares are far from being numerous or pressing. He was still capable of looking out for Cornish's interests, and his own, too, if he need arose.

He went down to the office alert and vigorous. As he strode along he nodded and smiled at the people he met on the street. If the odium of his father's crime was to attach itself to him it should be without his help. An oath might count him envious. If it liked, but it must not think him weak.

His first official act was to go for Kerr, who was unusually amiable, and he gave that frigid gentleman a smile which lasted him for the better part of a week, for Kerr, who had run himself overnight that Oakley must resign, saw himself having full swing with the Huckleberry and was disposed to treat his superior with airy indifference. He had objected to handing up an old order book Dan wished to see on the score that he was too busy, whereas, as Holt expressed it, the latter "jumped on him with both feet." His second official act was to serve formal notice on Drayton that he was dismissed from the shop. He was even harsh with Miss Walton, and took exception to her spelling of a typewritten letter which he was sending off to Cornish in London.

He also inspected every department in the shop and was glad of an excuse he discovered to reprimand Joe Stokes, who was stockkeeper in the carpenter's room, for the slovenly manner in which the stock was handled. Then he returned to the office and as a matter of discipline kept Kerr busy all the rest of the morning handling dusty order books from a dark closet. He felt that if excitement was what was wanted he was the one to furnish it. He had been too easy.

Naturally the office force gave a sleep sigh of satisfaction when Oakley closed his desk and announced that he was going upstairs and would not return. Miss Walton confided to Kerr that she just hoped he would never come back.

It was a little before 3 o'clock when Dan presented himself at the Emorys'. The maid who answered his ring ushered him into the parlor with marked trepidation. She was a timid soul. Then she awoke from the room, but returned almost immediately to say that Miss Emory would be down in a moment.

When Constance entered the room he advanced a little uncertainly. She extended her hand quite cordially, however. There was no trace of embarrassment or constraint in her manner.

As he took her hand Dan said almost glibly, going straight to the purpose of his visit:

"I have thought a good deal over what I want to tell you, Miss Emory." Miss Emory instantly took the alarm and was on the defensive. She enveloped herself in that species of inscrutable feminine reserve men find so difficult to penetrate. She could not imagine what he had to tell her that was so pressing. He was certainly very curious and unconventional.

There was one thing she feared he might want to tell her which she was firmly determined not to hear.

Oakley drew forward a chair. "Won't you sit down?" he asked gravely.

"Thank you, yes." It was all formal they both smiled.

Dan stood with his back to the fireplace, now filled with ferns, and rested an elbow on the mantel. There was an awkward pause. At last he said slowly:

"It seems I've been the subject of a lot of talk during the last two days, and I have been saddled with a matter for which I am in no way responsible, though it appears to reflect on me quite as much as if I were."

"Really, Mr. Oakley?" began Constance, scented danger ahead. But her visitor was in no mood to temporize.

"One moment, please," he said hastily. "You have heard the story from Mr. Hyder."

"I have heard it from others as well."

FAT POCKETBOOK FOUND ON STREET

"Shorty" Scott Makes Owner Glad By His Honesty.

W. J. Lewis Drops His Wallet Full of Bills on Third Street Near Broadway.

HAD NEVER MISSED HIS HILL.

Walter Scott, better known as "Shorty," who keeps a hamburger and tamale stand on Third street between Broadway and Kentucky ave., saw a flat pocketbook lying on the pavement in front of his stand last night about 8 o'clock. He asked a friend standing near to hand it to him.

"I don't guess there is anything in this flat old book," Shorty declared as he opened it. He was much surprised to take out a flat layer of bills of $50 and $20 denominations and a check for $50. An owner was found a short time after, but he did not know that he had lost it until Scott asked him to look for his pocketbook.

The owner is W. J. Lewis, a conductor on the N. C. & St. L. railroad, residing at 1008 Trimble street. He was standing in front of the tamale stand eating a hamburger. He pulled his handkerchief out of his hip pocket, where he kept the pocketbook, and it fell out when the handkerchief was brought to view unnoticed to Mr. Lewis or any one else. He had been gone a short time only when the pocketbook was found. He returned in fifteen minutes with a friend and discovered that his property had been found and was in good hands.

The total amount of money in the pocketbook was $212 in cash and a check for $50.

SILENCE BROKEN BY J. W. WARREN

Is Employed in Gold Mine in Mountains of Mexico.

Writes Interestingly of Conditions There, Which Indicate War With United States.

NATIVES HATE FOEGERNEHS.

After a silence of seven years Mr. J. W. Warren, a brother of Mr. W. N. Warren, the Paducah jeweler, has written his brother a letter apprising him of his whereabouts, but the letter is not by any means encouraging. The brother's position is one of peril and he is liable to experience something of a miniature war.

Mr. J. W. Warren has not been heard from in seven years and his brother here knew nothing of his whereabouts and had no way to locate him. "I received a letter from him yesterday," Mr. Warren stated, "and he is located in the central western part of Mexico working in the gold mines. He is employed as one of the horses, and states that there is trouble coming between Mexico and Uncle Sam.

"He tells me that the Mexicans have threatened to drive all Americans from the country, and that the work will begin in September. The natives allege that the Americans are making too much money, and they do not intend to stand for it.

"Preparation among the natives convince the foreigners that the natives are in earnest, and my brother writes that the company has fortifications in place to defend itself against the natives.

"This discovery put an end to his labors. He immediately called into consultation Mayor Yester and other city officials and explained to them that the city cannot construct the sewer until it has secured consent of the property owners to the use of their land.

"Japan purposely declined to permit outsiders having anything to do with the Portmouth treaty, which was therefore unenforceable, uncertain and unguaranteed. Our presence on the Amur and in Vladivostok forces the Mikado to maintain an army and fleet there, tying his hands so that he is compelled merely to accept such incident as the killing of seal poachers by the Americans. This is the secret of Japan's anxiety to drive us beyond the Amur, thereby gaining a province and freedom of action.

"We believe that America and countries of Europe having interests in the far east should guarantee the status quo.

The latter plan is advocated by City Solicitor Campbell, and he suggested that nothing further be done until Monday when Engineer Alvord can see the plans, and possibly rearrange them so as to keep off private property, at least, out Broadway where the school building is to be located.

Thousands upon thousands of American women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing India is the success of this great medicine, and compared with all other medicines and compounds for women it is unsurpassed.

"Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such widespread results for good?

"Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a century?

"Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached it is because it is painless and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

FAT POCKETBOOK FOUND ON STREET

"Shorty" Scott Makes Owner Glad By His Honesty.

W. J. Lewis Dives His Wallet Full of Bills on Third Street Near Broadway.

HAD NEVER MISSED HIS HOLE.

Walter Scott, better known as "Shorty," who keeps a hamburger and tamale stand on Third street between Broadway and Kentucky avenue, saw a fat pocketbook lying on the pavement in front of his stand last night about 8 o'clock. He asked a friend standing near to hand it to him.

"I have thought a good deal over what I want to tell you, Miss Emory." Miss Emory instantly took the alarm and was on the defensive. She enveloped herself in that species of inscrutable feminine reserve men find so difficult to penetrate. She could not imagine what he had to tell her that was so pressing. He was certainly very curious and unconventional. There was one thing she feared he might want to tell her which she was firmly determined not to hear.

Oakley drew forward a chair. "Won't you sit down?" he asked gravely.

"Thank you, yes." It was all so formal they both smiled.

He stood with his back to the fireplace, now filled with ferns, and rested an elbow on the mantel. There was an awkward pause. At last he said slowly:

"It seems I've been the subject of a lot of talk during the last two days, and I have been saddled with a matter for which I am in no way responsible, though it appears to reflect on me quite as much as if I were."

"Really, Mr. Oakley," began Constance, scuttling danger ahead. But her visitor was in no mood to temporize.

"One moment, please," he added hastily. "You have heard the story from Mr. Ryer."

"I have heard it from others as well."

"It has influenced you?"

"No, I won't say that," defiantly. She was not accustomed to being catechized.

"At least it has caused you to seriously doubt the wisdom of an acquaintance," blurted Oakley.

"You are very unfair," rising, with latent anger.

"You will greatly oblige me by sitting down again."

And Constance, astonished beyond measure at his tone of command, sank back into her chair with a little smothered gasp of surprise. No one had ever ventured to speak to her like that before. It was a new experience.

"We've got to finish this, you know," explained Dan, with one of his frankest smiles, and his smile was quite as attractive. Constance, however, was not to be propitiated, but she kept her seat. She was apprehensive lest Oakley would do something more startling and novel if she attempted to cut short the interview.

She stole a glance at him from under her long lashes. He was studying the carpet, apparently quite lost to the enormity of his conduct. "You have heard their side of the story, Miss Emory. I want you to hear mine. It's only fair, isn't it? You have heard that my father is an ex-convict?"

"Yes," with a tinge of regret.

"That he is a murderer?" plunging ahead mercilessly.

"Yes."

"And this is influencing you?"

"I suppose it is," helplessly. "It would naturally. It was a great shock to us all."

"Yes," agreed Dan. "I can understand, I think, just how you must look at it."

"We are very, very sorry for you, Mr. Oakley. I want to explain my manner last night. The whole situation was so excessively awkward. I am sure you must have felt it."

"I did," shortly.

"Oh, dear, I hope you didn't think me unkind."

"No." Then he added, a trifle wearily: "It's taken me all this time to realize my position. I suppose I owe you some sort of an apology. You must have thought me fearfully thick-skinned."

He hoped she would say no, but he was disappointed. Her conscience had been troubling her, and she was perfectly willing to share her remorse with him since he was as ready to assume a part of it. She was as conventional as extreme respectability could make her, but she had never liked Oakley half so well. She admired his courage. He didn't whine. His very stupidity was, in its way admirable, but it was certainly too bad he could not see just how impossible he was under the circumstances.

Dan raised his eyes to hers. "Miss Emory, the only time I remember to have seen my father until he came here a few weeks ago was through the grating of his cell door. My mother took me there as a little boy. When she died I came west, where no one knew me. I had already learned that, because of him, I was somehow judged and condemned too. It has always been hanging over me. I have always feared exposure. I suppose I can bush it up after awhile, but there will always be some one to tell it to who even will listen. It is no longer a secret."

"Was it fair to your friends, Mr. Oakley, that it was a secret?"

"I can't see what business it was of theirs. It is nothing I have done, and, anyhow, I have never had any friends until now I cared especially about—

When City Solicitor Campbell was preparing the ordinance for the sewer work this morning, using the plans in City Engineer Washington's office to aid him, he discovered that the newer route traverses the property of several citizens.

This discovery put an end to his labors. He immediately called into consultation Mayor Yeller and other city officials and explained to them that the city cannot construct the sewer until it has secured consent of the property owners to the use of their land.

Two plums are open to the city. It can condemn the right of way or secure grants from the property owners or confine the extension at present to that part of the district that can be reached without going onto private property.

The latter plan is advocated by City Solicitor Campbell, and he suggested that nothing further be done until Monday when Engineer Alford can see the plans, and possibly rearrange them so as to keep off private property, at least, out toward way where the school building is to be reached.

"It's all right now," she said sweetly.

"What's all right?" asked the crowd, breathless with suspense.

"Why, my waist. A button came loose in the back and I had such a awful time reaching it. But it's all right now."

And then the crowd melted away like ice cream in a summer sun.—Chicago News.

PARIS GIVEN ON TOBACCO.

It develops that the farmers are using para green very freely to destroy tobacco worms. The remedy is effective, it simply kills the worms by the wholesale, and it seems to be the only salver for saving the crop.

Some people are afraid of it, and hesitate to use the deadly poison. Connecticut has a strict and severe law against its use on tobacco. However, if good rains follow after its use, washing the poison from the leaves, there is no danger in para green unless it gets in the stomach, in which event the amylase portion is deadly.

But people chewing tobacco don't have to swallow it. In fact, do not, as the tobacco itself is steaming to the stomach. It is estimated that the crop this year will be short and worth a heap of money, and every farmer will protect the crop against the worms.

Marcelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are far enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ill health, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), weakness, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blemish should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Any way write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

Woman's Trials.

The bitter trial in a woman's life is to be childless. Who can tell how hard the struggle may have been ere she learnt to resign herself to her lonely lot? The absence of a look to bind matrimony together, the absence of this one pledge to mutual affection is a common disappointment. Many unfortunate couples become estranged thereby. Even if they do not drift apart, one may read the whole extent of their disappointment in the eyes of each other, of either, when they rest on the shoulders of others. To this the largest family does not seem to conform.

In many cases of barrenness or childlessness the obstacle to child-bearing is easily removed by the cure of weakness on the part of the woman. Dr. Pierce's "Favorable Prescription" is the most popular remedy for the means of restoring health and fruitfulness to a barren woman, to the great joy of the household. In other, but rare cases, the obstruction to the bearing of children has been found to be of a surgical character, but easily removable by painless operation.

In all the various weaknesses, dispositions, proclivities, inflammation and debilitating, catarrhal, drabs and in all cases of nervousness and debility, Dr. Pierce's "Favorable Prescription" is the most remedy put forth for sale among druggists, especially for women's use.
